Those aren't sardines in this week's cover photo, but the sardine season does open on next Tuesday, with fishermen expecting a good season. The local fishing industry is the peninsula's second largest industry. Tourist trade is first.

PROPOSE CARMEL TRAFFIC CHANGES

A reduction in parking time limits as well as reversal in one-way traffic on Dolores Street before the Post Office were among the 15 recommendations made to the City of Carmel Wednesday by Robert W. Graver, representing the California State Automobile Association.

The recommendations were based on a comprehensive study of local traffic conditions, presented before the City Council and local businessmen on Wednesday afternoon.

1. With reference to parking time limits in the business area, the report recommended that current 40-minute parking limit on Dolores Street in the Post Office block be lowered to 10 minutes; that the current two-hour parking limit on Ocean Avenue between Mission and Lincoln Streets, and on Dolores Street between Sixth and Seventh Avenues be reduced to one hour; that a time limit of two hours be designated for parking on Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Mission; and that the current two-hour parking limit on Fifth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission be eliminated. (It was reported that the motorist who parks in the two-hour zone stops only an average of 51 minutes).

2. The direction of travel on Dolores Street be reversed to permit only southbound traffic in the Post Office block. (Mr. Graver explained that this measure would eliminate much of the present congestion at the Village Corner as motorists would park nearer Fifth Avenue. Currently, motorists are prone to stop and wait for a stall near Sixth, holding up traffic. Entering the street from Fifth, but parking on the same side of the street would give drivers better vision when they start to back away from the curb, he said).

3. The report also suggested that Fifth Avenue be improved between Dolores and San Carlos.

4. All U-turns at the intersections of Ocean Avenue with Mission, Dolores, San Carlos and Lincoln Streets be prohibited.

5. Left turns from Ocean Avenue on to Mission, Dolores, San Carlos and Lincoln Streets be prohibited from 4 to 6 p.m. except on Sundays and holidays.

6. All existing parking signs be replaced with signs conforming to accepted state standards.

7. All "dual" purpose loading and 10-minute zones be eliminated and replaced with separate yellow and green zones at certain locations designated in the report.

8. A three-wheel motorcycle be acquired to aid in the enforcement of parking regulations.

9. The center dividing islands on Ocean Avenue be cut back so that they do not protrude past the property line extensions of intersecting streets.

10. The center dividing island on Ocean Avenue just east of San Carlos be reduced in width to the normal width of the remaining portion of the island.

11. The mid-block pedestrian crossings on Ocean Avenue be eliminated.

12. Pavement markings, particularly pedestrian crosswalks at intersections be painted in accordance with standard specifications established by the California Division of Highways.

13. Ocean Avenue be improved from Monte Verde Street to the beach to the same standards as east of that location.

14. A parking lot accommodating 100 vehicles be established at the beach on the city owned property north of Ocean Avenue.

15. A through street plan, particularly for the southern and western portions of the city, be developed which will provide by-pass routes for commuter traffic around the business district, these routes to be improved to the necessary standards.

While the City Council discussed the proposed changes, it was decided not to take any action until further studies can be made. Mayor Allen Knight expressed the city's thanks to the CSAA, which pointed out in a letter from Edwin S. Moore that a number of the recommendations such as those dealing with parking time limits and special controls for traffic on Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street can be put into effect at nominal

"GLASS MENAGERIE" opens tonite

One of the topnotch plays of our generation, "The Glass Menagerie," by Tennessee Williams, will open tonight at Sunset Auditorium. During its first Broadway season this play was awarded first honors by the New York Drama Critics' Circle as the best play of the year. The Carmel production marks the return to activity of the Golden Bough Players, burnt out of their theatrical home last year when the famed Playhouse was destroyed. Edward Kuster is directing - a guarantee of expert casting and painstaking production.

"The Glass Menagerie" is presented as a benefit for the scenery and lighting fund of Carmel Playhouse, soon to be built on the site of the former Golden Bough, with more than 200 peninsulans holding the stock of the owner corporation. An able cast of experienced players, new to the community, will enact the absorbing play, with the same lighting effects and incidental music as those used in the price-winning New York production.

The critical press has hailed "The Glass Menagerie" with admiration and delight. Says the New York Sun, "Fragile and poignant... a vivid, eerie and curiously enchanting play. Something to see, to cheer about, and to see again."

The cast, with James McNeill as stage manager, includes Cornelia Elliott, Julie McCarthy, Gene Bayol and Floyd Fox. Emma Evans and Constance Bestor are in charge of the music and sound effects, and John Chitwood heads the lighting crew. Curtain at 8:30 sharp. The seat sale is in the Golden Bough Court, opposite Pine Inn, until 6 p.m., after which tickets will be available at Sunset Auditorium box-office. Reservations may be made by telephoning Carmel 7-7741. A second performance will take place tomorrow night.

An extensive brush fire in a vacant lot on Lobos between First and Second Avenues was brought quickly under control by the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department on Friday at 1:30 p.m. Started by children who were building a bonfire, the blaze threatened nearby homes. Top four photos show volunteer firemen Duke Dufer and John Huddleson in action against the fire, which spread to a wide area before it was extinguished. Attending the engine at bottom left are Roy Walls and Ernie Gien with an unidentified onlooker at right. Photo at bottom right shows a fireman returning to the truck after the fire was completely doused. Photos by YALE HILLS.

One of the most perplexing topics since the Korean war started is any discussion of the Army and Navy RESERVE status. "Are you in the reserves?" is a popular question that I heard a reserve Navy officer trying to answer the other day. His comments went like this: "Well, uh, yes, you see, I've never been OUT of the reserves, if you get what I mean. I mean I'm in the INACTIVE reserves. In other words I was never DISCHARG-

Well, it's kind of hard to explain.
Yes, I know I attend reserve of-

The difference between the ACTIVE

And so on. In fact, the topic had occasioned so little interest prior to the war in Korea that men who are in the reserves kind of lost track of the various classifica-

FOREST THEATER GUILD WILL MEET TUESDAY

A regular meeting of the Forest Theater Guild will be held Tuesday, August 1, in the Girl Scout House at 8 p.m.

As the 1949-50 board of directors was re-elected only temporarily, the nominating committee will present a slate for the 1950-51 board. Nominations will also be accepted from the floor and voted upon by ballot.

Other matters to be discussed are plans for the experimental theater group in the basement of the Forest Theater and the Guild's next production, "Winterset," by Maxwell Anderson, which is now being cast. The drama will be presented September 1, 2 and 3, under the direction of Cole Weston.

Plays will be produced by the experimental group at frequent intervals in connection with its classes in acting, directing, theater technique, stage managing, dancing, make-up and fencing. It is not necessary to be a guild member in order to take part in any of the group's activities or productions.

SPREADING the NEWS...

By Howard Statham

PROBABLY THE ONLY LADY IN CARMEL who has a dinosaur for a brother-in-law is Madeleine Ouellet, wife of Commander J. A. Ouellet. And if you're in doubt that even she is thus distinguished, the proof may be obtained from a book recently published by Dodd, Mead & Company entitled "I Married a Dinosaur." The book was written by one Lillian Brown, who, it turns out, is none other than Mrs. Ouellet's sister. The dinosaur of the title is Barnum Brown, a well-known paleontologist who was, for 35 years, curator of the Museum of Natural History in New York City.

Reading over the notes I acquired in a very exclusive interview with Mrs. Ouellet at the Carmel Kiddie Shop, I find that she referred to the Browns as "retired," but went on to say that they spend their time in traveling and lecturing, and that at present they are dug in down in Guatemala somewhere doing heaven knows what. From what I gather, Mr. Brown is just about as much at home in an oil field as he is in a dinosaur's den, having once surveyed for oil some Canadian property owned by the Duke of Windsor. Mrs. Brown's specialty, on which she lectures entertainingly at colleges and universities throughout this country, is the state of mind of the women of India: how they got that way, what they intend to do about it, and so forth.

The Ouellets, on the other hand, seem to concentrate on more down-to-earth things. You can find them practically any day of the week behind the counter at the Kiddie Shop, selling diapers, rattles, booties, and everything right on up the line--up to and including size 8.

Henry James, D. H. Lawrence, and Sir Osbert Sitwell, three gentlemen not known, it will be remembered by those familiar with their literary works, for the simplicity of their sentence structure, are appearing, together with other well known writers, as commentators on the food of the Mediterranean region, in another newly-published book, "A Book of Mediterranean Food," by Elizabeth David--an English volume being distributed in this country by Macdonald & Company, publishers, and available through your bookseller for the nominal sum of $2.50--which should prove of interest, one imagines, not only to connoisseurs of good food, of which there are, in this area, many, it would seem, but also, in no less a degree, to those who feel some curiosity, however slight, about the manner in which Henry James, D. H. Lawrence, and Sir Osbert Sitwell, among others, ever found their respective ways into print in, of all things, a cookbook.

A FEW WEEKS BACK, a local lady who prefers to remain anonymous lived through a blood-curdling experience that would make the hair of an even less stouthearted individual stand on end. Being in an experimental and somewhat frugal frame of mind, she went about the house collecting odd pieces of toilet soap which she dissolved in water, put in a jar, and set aside in the back porch. This milky mixture she planned to use as a shampoo, and she was sure that her hair would smell nothing if not exotic when she had finished.

Came time to do the job and she got the shampoo from the porch. Nothing happened. No soap, no lather--nothing. In fact, she had rubbed her head for quite a while before she discovered that the jar she had grabbed from the porch didn't contain her soap mixture at all. It had starch in it.

This is a good sign. It indicates that the day is not far off when none of us will have to waste time looking at the same old scenery day after day while we drive from one place to another--no one except the poor stoop who gets stuck behind the steering wheel, that is.

SOMEBODY ELSE has been spreading the news--and spreading it thick, much to the delight of Mrs. Frances Tilton, whose lingerie shop, the Silver Thimble, is located on Dolores Street. A syndicated article which appeared in a San Francisco paper last week went overboard about the accomplishments of Mrs. Tilton's daughter Martha, whose name you may have heard in connection with the singing business.

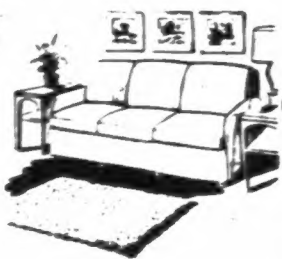

Martha, formerly a vocalist with Benny Goodman's band and now on her own program every weekday afternoon at 4 (CBS), has had quite a lot to do with the popularity of such hits as "Loch Lomond," "And the Angels Sing," "I'll Remember April" and "How are Things in Glocca Morra?" among others. According to the article, Martha does not limit herself to making recordings, singing on the air, doing one-night stands, making movies and raising a family. No, sir. On week-ends she's in Carmel (where, we learn, she's known as quote "the gal with the slips of our choice" unquote) occupied as buyer, window dresser, advertising copywriter, Saturday salesgirl, bookkeeper and general manager of the Silver Thimble. The article also says that her mother runs the place during the week, but leaves all business details for Martha's arrival on Friday night.

You know Mrs. Tilton. You've probably seen her a million times. She's that lady with the broom who's employed as janitor down at the Silver Thimble.

ANOTHER LADY AROUND HERE is in for a hard time, too. To quote her husband: "When I retire I'm going to buy my wife a washboard and a mirror. Then she can either work or watch herself starve to death."

NO ONE CAN SAY that television isn't here to stay, although one particular receiver I saw the other day may not be on the Monterey Peninsula for keeps. I spotted it up on the hill between Pacific Grove and Carmel, where the reception may be better than it is in other places around here. Just as I hit the top of the hill, coming toward me was a fairly normal-looking 1950-type automobile, but instead of the radio aerial that all you old-fashioned stick-in-the-muds have on your cars, this one was equipped with a brand new and very fancy television aerial.

BACH FESTIVAL: A WORK WELL DONE

By GLENN CLAIRMONTE

At the time The SPECTATOR last went to press it was possible to report only on the first three days of the 1950 Carmel Bach Festival, in celebration of the Bi-Centennial of the death of Johann Sebastian Bach.

Wednesday morning, July 19, Alfred Frankenstein gave his second lecture in the Carmel Woman's Club, discussing Bach's unfinished work, The Art of the Fugue. He explained the architecture of the piece, giving examples on the Capehart loaned for the occasion by Abinante's Music Store. Carefully he delineated Bach's mathematical design, proving the depth of the composer's insight into the possibilities of his medium.

Thursday morning, in the Woman's Club, Maxim Schapiro resumed his playing of the Preludes and Fugues of The Well Tempered Clavier, and a large part of the audience sat studying the score as he played with his unique brilliance. It was musician's music of a high order, and Schapiro's unassuming acknowledgement of the thunderous applause won him new personal admiration.

That afternoon members of the orchestra joined Ludwig Altman during his organ recital at All Saints' Church. Gastone Usigli, conductor, Ervin Mautner, violin, Jean McGuire, cellist, Floyd Stancliff, flute, Ralph Watilo, oboe. Trio Sonata from The Musical Offering, and Handel's Concerto No. 4 in F major lifted the series of organ recitals to a grand climax.

It was Thursday evening, in the Sunset Auditorium, when the premiere of The Art of the Fugue as orchestrated by Gastone Usigli took place. For the sake of those in the audience who had not been briefed during the Wednesday morning lecture, Alfred Frankenstein delivered a short explanation of the exhaustive study of counterpoint. This work, which Bach had to leave in skeleton form at the time of his death, is like a great argument in favor of the mastering of technique. The formality of the piece was a severe test for the musicians, and the audience was stirred by its execution. It might almost be said to have out-Bached Bach, being so deeply descriptive of his composition methods.

The Friday evening concert was in the hands of soloists (while Usigli took time out to rehearse his chorus for the coming production of The Saint John Passion). This chamber music program opened with Mozart's Divertimento No. 13, F major; oboes, Ralph Watilo and Felix Kraus; horns, Willard Culley and Douglas Norris; bassoons, Douglas Craig and Harold Hanson. Next came Suite for Cello No. II C major, executed by Marian Davies, whose skill provided perfection of tone. Murmurs throughout the audience were to the effect that she was on a par with Piatigorsky, her former master. Following this Floyd Stancliff, Stanley Plummer and Ralph Linsley rendered Sonata for Flute, Violin and Piano, and then Ludwig Altman gave toccatas and preludes at the organ.

M.P.G.

The tremendous success of the evening was actually topped, however, when Randolph Hokanson reached the piano. During his playing of Toccata in F sharp minor, Italian Concerto and Chromatique Fantasy and Fugue, he came into greater recognition than ever. In response to prolonged applause he obliged with the only encore of the entire festival: he gave Romantic Fantasy with Fugue to the immense delight of the house. It was pure concert work that many of the seasoned music critics considered unsurpassable.

On Saturday morning, again in the Woman's Club, Maxim Schapiro made his last appearance of the week, concluding the preludes and fugues of The Well Tempered Clavier recital. The excellence of his work on his beloved Baldwin piano made everyone reluctant to leave the hall.

The Saturday evening concert included three Brandenburg Concertos: IV, V and III. The stars were Ervin Mautner and Stanley Plummer, violinists, Ralph Linsley, pianist, Marian Davies, Jean Fulkerson and Jean McGuire, cellists, Samuel Singer, Albert White and Elizabeth Bell, violists, Floyd Stancliff and Patrice Kelly, flutists.

When Olive Mae Beach appeared for the Cantata Jauchzet Gott in allen Landen, she received a tentative ovation; but when she had completed the first Aria everyone present had already decided that she was one of the generation's greatest sopranos. Her beauty and grace made even more acceptable the results of her talent and power.

The final number of this concert was Concerto in D minor for three pianos and orchestra. Ralph Linsley, Randolph Hokanson and Charles Fulkerson gave the three movements with a triumphant precision, and they were acclaimed for several minutes before the audience dispersed.

The close of the eight-day Festival occurred Sunday evening, July 23, when the chorus and orchestra presented The Passion According to St. John, Usigli conducting. The 63 local members of the chorus supported these famous soloists: James Schwabacher, tenor, Olive Mae Beach, soprano, Katherine Hilgenberg, contralto, Monas Harlan, tenor, Ralph Isbell, bass. Evident indeed was the joyous reverence which is typical of Bach's music, and throughout the hall, afterward, old concert-goers were declaring they had never heard a smother chorus anywhere in the world.

Backstage all the participants were taking congratulations from the enthusiastic Carmelites who milled through the wings, sadly saying farewell to the musicians until next year. Gastone Usigli stood with Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous, the founders and producers, all three of them exuding the satisfaction which a work well done had entitled them to feel.

Carmel turned out enmasse Monday night to attend the Freddy Martin Concert and Dance benefit for the Carmel Youth Center. Since it was youths' night, we had a youthful photographer take the pictures on this and the following page: young John Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Monroe, of Carmel. Top left, entering the Sunset Auditorium, are Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Weer, Mrs. Edwin Atherton and William Kappy. Top right, the crowd gathers near the bandstand at Carmel High gymnasium where the dance was held. Bottom left, Freddy Martin with Fred Godwin, president of Carmel Youth Center, Inc., and bottom right, Bob Updike, Donna Douglas, Nancy Bacon and Rod Dresser.

KAPPY DESIGNER OF "THE SWAN" SET

In our review last week of the Wharf Players' current production of "The Swan," we neglected to mention the excellent set design which was executed by Bill Kappy. He is well known on the peninsula for his work with little theater groups, one of the most outstanding and recent of the productions he worked on being "Lady Windermere's Fan."

An easterner by birth, Bill attended school in New Jersey and during his college years majored in metallurgy, later becoming associated with a New York steel concern.

He arrived on the peninsula in early 1946, decided to stay, and is a resident of Carmel Valley. He worked on the production of "Dream Girl" presented at the Golden Bough Playhouse in 1947. This was his first attempt at any kind of set designs and the play has 32 scenes! Other sets that he has designed were for "Mrs. Moonlight" and "Arms and the Man."

MRS. BURDE CHAIRMAN OF GARDEN BOOTH FOR PTA CARNIVAL

Mrs. Walter Burde has been named chairman of the Garden Booth for the Carmel Parent-Teachers Association Carnival, which is scheduled for September 16 at the Sunset School grounds.

On her committee are Mrs. F. L. Wallace, Mrs. Glenn Leidig, Mrs. Stuart Mitchell and Mrs. Gordon Campbell. The committee seeks donations of empty flower pots, labeled slips and herbs of all kinds, driftwood for flower arrangements (also some planted with succulents), cut flowers, redwood burls, bedding plants and dried materials for flower arrangements.

Mrs. Mitchell will plant the hanging baskets during the second and third weeks of August. Persons who wish to donate plants suitable for hanging baskets are asked to telephone Mrs. Burde at 7-3986.

WATER SUPPLY

One of man's most important accomplishments through the centuries has been his development of water supply. The ways of procuring and distributing water in civilized communities today are a far cry from the primitive methods pictured here.

And improvements in all phases of the water supply business are constantly being made—improvements in the methods of dam construction, in the manufacture of pipe, in the design of pumps and valves, in the drilling of wells, in laboratory practices, in management techniques. Today, water flows to you at the mere turning of a faucet, as required, when and where you want it—pure water, continuously tested for your safety.

Water, itself, is free—it's the "handling" that makes water cost. However, water, in comparison to other commodities of equal value, is one of today's biggest bargains. Its cost is less than 10c a ton, which is far cheaper than dirt.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Roy Fraties, chief of the Carmel Police Department, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" Born in 1901 in Salinas, Chief Fraties had visited Carmel frequently as a youngster, and he moved here after finishing high school in 1917. Two years later he started a 16-year stint in the building trades by going to work for Fred Ruhl, Pebble Beach contractor. Most of the time, however, he worked as a carpenter for the M. J. Murphy Lumber Co. In 1936, he joined the Carmel Police Force when it was commanded by Bob Norton. By 1942, when he attended the National Police Academy at Washington, he was already acting police chief. Married in 1921 to the former Bliss Raiford, of Monterey, Chief Fraties is a grandfather twice over. His daughter is married to Major Gus Weiser, of the Army Air Force, now stationed in El Paso, Texas. The Fraties also have two sons, Gail, 22, and Arvid, 5.

people, Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Bob Johnson announced today.

Tourists and fishing are the peninsula's two leading businesses, Johnson stated, each accounting for a substantial slice of the area's payroll and purchasing power, of benefit to the entire community.

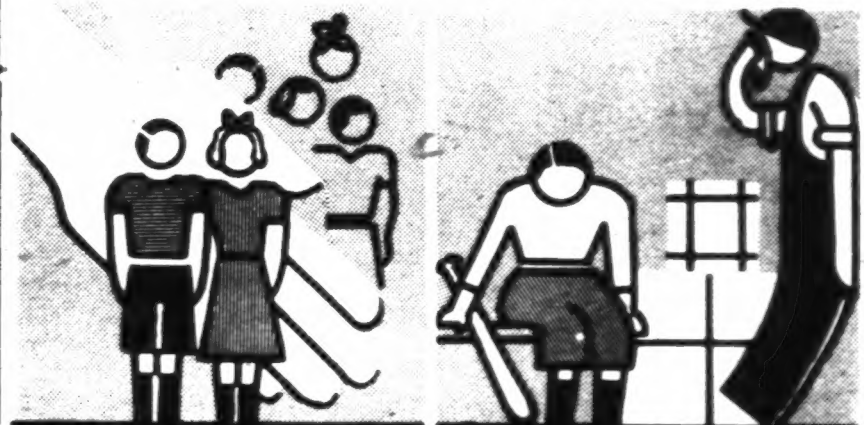

"One of the important factors in 'selling' tourists on the scenic, historic and climatic advantages of our peninsula," Johnson declared, "is the daily two-and-a-half hour scenic tour of Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel, operated by Bay Rapid Transit Co. as Monterey Peninsula Tours."

POLIO PRECAUTIONS

RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

AVOID NEW GROUPS*DON'T GET OVERTIRED*DON'T GET CHILLED*KEEP CLEAN

WHEN POLIO IS AROUND, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis recommends these simple precautions: Keep children with their own friends and away from people they have not been with right along. Don't become exhausted through work or hard play. Don't stay too long in cold water or sit around in wet clothes. And always wash hands before eating. Watch for feverishness, sore throat, headache, upset stomach or sore muscles. They may—or may not—mean polio. Call your doctor and then, if help is needed contact the National Foundation Chapter in your area.

Because he is going overseas, the owner of "Bourbon," the above 160 pound, three and one-half year old Great Dane, wishes to find him a good home. He will accept an offer of $50, but is most interested in leaving the dog with a happy family. "Bourbon" does not eat meat and is fed once a day at a cost of only $9 a month. He has not yet leaped over a four foot fence. Write to Ellen Maxwell, Box 443, Marina, or Sgt. Robert Brooks, also of Marina.

Collect $894.00 for Dutch Girl

A total of $984 dollars has been collected from local service clubs and private individuals to finance a year's schooling at Monterey Peninsula College for 19-year-old Else Ouendag, of Amsterdam, Holland, according to Calvin C. Cope, dean of the MPC Evening Division, who is chairman of the local UNESCO Committee.

The funds should be enough to provide for Miss Ouendag's education, Mr. Cope said, and now a drive will be started to raise money for a half a year's education for a young French girl.

The $984 was collected from the following groups: Carmel Rotary Club, $100; Monterey Rotary Club, $100; Monterey Kiwanis, $100; American Women's Voluntary Services, $50; Community Center Auxiliary, $36; Monterey Civic Club, $36; Monterey Lions Club, $25, and Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club, $25. The remaining $476 was donated by individuals.

Miss Ouendag, who travels to the United States under provisions of the Fulbright Act, will reside with Miss Frances Whitehead, a teacher at Pacific Grove High School. Mr. Cope said Mrs. John Gratiot and Charles Simpson have been chosen to select a committee for administering the funds and for getting the drive underway to raise money for the French girl.

Miss Ouendag, who speaks Dutch, French, English and German, wishes to major in American history and political science.

SCHAPIRO TO GIVE CARMEL PIANO RECITAL NEXT SEPTEMBER 26

Demand for a solo recital by Maxim Schapiro has been insistent since the great pianist first appeared in the Bach Festival three years ago. Mr. Schapiro's commanding and superb playing of the well-tempered clavier recitals during the festival week have so increased the demand that the Denny-Watrous management has arranged for a piano recital on Saturday evening, September 26, in the Sunset School auditorium. Mr. Schapiro promises a program of Beethoven, Chopin, Ravel, Milhaud, and some rarely heard pieces of French music which have met with great response in his Eastern recitals.

Tickets will shortly go on sale at the local music stores.

"AFTER THE BALL IS OVER." Relaxing at Blewett's Monday afternoon after the last day of the Bach Festival on Sunday, our roving photographer caught Dean Denny, Hazel Watrous and pianist Maxim Schapiro. The tremendous amount of detail and planning necessary to put over such an undertaking as the Bach Festival is all too often not appreciated by some of our fellow townspeople. The SPECTATOR says "Congratulations on a fine festival, beautifully presented." POLAROID ONE-MINUTE Photo.
